Mr. Ibraheem shared his professional journey and experiences in the IT industry. He guided students on the essential technical skills, placement preparation strategies, and the importance of consistent learning. He also highlighted the transition from academics to the corporate environment and motivated students to focus on coding, problem-solving, and effective communication skills to excel in the competitive world.

Interaction with Students

The interactive session allowed students to ask questions regarding career opportunities, project development, and industry expectations. The alumnus encouraged juniors to utilize platforms like LinkedIn for professional networking and continuous growth.

Conclusion

Overall, the event was highly beneficial as it bridged the gap between senior alumni and juniors, providing valuable insights into career planning and professional development. The Department conveys its gratitude to Mr. Ibraheem for taking time to interact with the students and for his valuable inputs.
